

SPEAKER | HEALTHCARE LEADERSHIP

Taccarra Davenport, BSN, RN

Retired Army Officer | Registered Nurse | Certified Neuroscience Coach

Trained isn't the same as ready.

Taccarra spent 20 years in military healthcare, from medic to Chief of Public Health Nursing. As an investigating officer on high turnover units, she saw the same thing every time: no one had the conversation early. She speaks to nurse leaders and healthcare executives about why trained leaders still avoid the hard conversation, and what the brain under stress has to do with it.

Speaking Topics

Trained Isn't the Same as Ready: Why Leaders Still Avoid Hard Conversations

What 20 years in military healthcare taught her about the conversation that never happens.

Your Brain on Back to Back Teams Meetings

How stress and nonstop virtual meetings change the way leaders listen, decide, and speak up.

How You Lead at Work Is How You Lead at Home

Delegation, boundaries, and the habits that follow leaders everywhere they go.

From Bedside to Leadership: What New Nurse Leaders Actually Need

For organizations promoting clinicians into management with little preparation.

> "She has the absolute trust of her Soldiers, peers, and leaders."
>
> Senior Rater, U.S. Army Officer Evaluation Report

Formats

Keynote | Breakout session | Half day workshop | Podcast interview | Virtual summit

Audiences

Nurse leaders and managers | Healthcare executives | Military medical teams | HR and training leaders

Credentials

Registered Nurse, 17 years | Retired U.S. Army Officer | Certified Neuroscience Coach | Certified AI Consultant | Author, Beyond the Titles

Invite Taccarra to speak

hello@taccarra.com | 313-800-8574 | taccarra.com

Use of military rank and evaluations does not imply endorsement by the Department of the Army or the Department of Defense.